WPB Canal Claims Victim Wednesday

The body of a man was taken out of West Palm Beach Canal about 2:30 p. m. Wednesday near the center of town.

Believed to have been in the canal since early Monday, he was identified as Owen Gaines, about 45, of Indiana, who had been living here for the past several weeks after a stay at Pahokee.

Deputy Sheriff Frank O'Connell said the death was apparently due to accidental drowning.

Authorities were called after several fishermen saw the head bobbing in the water just east of the locks.

Several persons said they had last seen the man Sunday afternoon in town, and that he had spent much of his time fishing. There was nothing to indicate suicide, the deputy said.

Letters found in his rented house indicate he has a son and daughter living at Petersburg, Ind.

Belle Glade Chamber Of Commerce Recognizes Rardin's Action For Slowing Six Mile Bridge Accidents

Commendation for precautionary measures which have been taken at Six Mile Bridge was expressed in two letters this week to the Palm Beach County Commission—one from the Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce, the other from Highway 441 Association.

The safety measures for which the commission drew appreciation from the two groups, were initiated by Commissioner Paul Rardin who placed night watchmen at either approach to the bridge and also marked the approaches with a series of 30 flares.

Rardin said this week that flashing signals for the bridge are on order and will be installed immediately on delivery.

Mr. Rardin this week also drew commendation from members of his own board who recognized the Canal Point commissioner's record during the past year as president of the State Association of County Commissioners.

The state association, during the past year and for the first time in the history of the organization, had membership from all 67 counties in the state.

Rardin stepped down as head of the state group last week when the association held its annual meeting in St. Augustine. Attending from Palm Beach County were Rardin, Commissioner Chairman Kenneth Foster, Commissioner Ben Sundy, County Attorney Harry Johnston and R. B. McKee, executive secretary of the board.

News Notes From State Capital

TALLAHASSEE—Suits asking circuit courts in Panama City and Tampa to clear up the new campaign expenditure law as to freedom of press and freedom of speech are now pending judicial decisions. Kenneth Ballinger, as attorney for the Florida Press Association and for the Florida Association of Broadcasters argued that the law prevents private citizens from writing or speaking their political sentiments as the constitution guarantees, and that it restrains a newspaper publisher from the press freedom guaranteed by both federal and state constitutions. Attorney General Richard W. Ervin in defending the law says it does not abridge free speech or free press, but is a valid exercise of the state's police power in curbing corrupt tendencies of those supporting candidates for office. In any event, both suits will be appealed to the supreme court of Florida as soon as decisions are made by the circuit courts.

TALLAHASSEE—The state beverage department has confirmed that Director Louis W. Schott is resigning to take work with a large New York construction company. The director, under whose eye the beverage department built up its effective enforcement arm, was appointed by Governor Warren, will leave after three years to be associated with Merritt Chapman and Scott Construction Company of New York.

TALLAHASSEE—Comptroller C. M. Gay announced that George Davis, general auditor of the great office which controls the money of Florida, has resigned to enter private business with the accounting firm of Abbess, Morgan, Altemus and Weinberg of Miami. He will be succeeded by Ray Higgins, who will continue to act as warrant officer.

TALLAHASSEE—The state board of health has a new member, Dr. Albert Lee Ward of Port St. Joe. He succeeds Dr. Mark F.

Boyd of Tallahassee, whose term has expired. Dr. Ward, who has practiced in Port St. Joe since 1938, is a native of DeFuniak Springs.

TALLAHASSEE—Pat Whitaker, famous Tampa attorney and former state senator, has qualified as a candidate for Democratic National Committeeman. Louise Alford of Jacksonville is a candidate for national committeewoman. Jerry W. Carter, Tallahassee, is the present national committeeman, serving out a four-year term.

TALLAHASSEE—Although the new election law says a saloon keeper may not contribute to a political candidate, that doesn't mean that the saloon keeper may not himself become a candidate. Attorney General Ervin told Ted Cabot, clerk of Broward county circuit court, that a citizen may finance his own campaign with his own funds even though he operates a bar and holds a state liquor license.

TALLAHASSEE—Florida's merit system warned state employees of four departments against "overt political activity" during the current campaign. Protected by the system against political change, the employees are prohibited by the Hatch act from taking the militant part in such campaigns that some other department members do. The industrial commission, crippled children's commission, state board of health, state welfare board and county health units thus are under the no-politics rule.

TALLAHASSEE—The days of financing national conventions out of the state treasury appear to be ending. The Shriners lost their recent appeal to the cabinet for $90,000 to help pay for their convention in Miami next June. The American Legion already had been helped last year, but the cabinet decided it was time to call a halt. The matter died for lack of a motion.

TALLAHASSEE—Nathan Mayo, cabinet dean and state commissioner of agriculture, did not disqualify himself by accepting help from an employee fund, says Secretary of State R. A. Gray. John M. Kennedy of Orlando, who is contesting with Mayo for the Democratic nomination, asked that Mayo be disqualified. Gray replied that the question was one for the courts. He added that his opinion is that Mayo did not disqualify himself.

PHS Students Stage PTA Fashion Show

Students of Miss Connie Smith's Homemaking Classes at Pahokee High School presented a fashion show at the March meeting of the Pahokee Parent-Teacher Association in the high school auditorium Monday night.

The theme of the show was "Around the Clock in Fashions". While the girls were modeling the clothes they themselves designed and made, a large clock on the stage pointed to the time of day the clothes would be usually worn. The show started with a pajama parade by girls of the ninth grade class, followed by an apron parade by the eighth grade girls. Other garments displayed by the 30 student models included school clothes, sports clothes, suits, semi-formal and evening wear. The program was under the direction of Mrs. Edward Jensen, program chairman.

At the business session Mrs. J. Schoepel, president, thanked all persons who assisted PTA in its sponsorship of the "Career Day" program for high school students last month.

The monthly attendance awards were won by Mrs. Kathryn Cunningham's second grade room at the elementary school and by Ned Kocher's tenth grade group at the high school.

Following the meeting the girls of the homemaking classes acted as hostesses during the serving of refreshments in the school patio.

Must Register

TALLAHASSEE—Even though you may be old enough to vote, you cannot vote unless you are registered and, according to Attorney General Richard Ervin, you cannot register until you are 21 years of age even though your 21st birthday will come prior to election day.

In most Florida counties the registration books will close April 5. In this case, if your birthday is April 6 or any day after that, and you reach the age of 21 you still cannot vote on election day, May 6, because the Florida law, Irvin states, sets the age requirement "at the time of registration" and there is no getting around it.

Growing interest in coming election has caused a number of persons who will reach the age of 21 prior to May 6 but not before April 5, to bring up this question.

Speer advised the county commission that four buzzard traps had been placed in operation ten miles east of Belle Glade and results included 600 buzzards, two dogs and a possum.

Speer also reported that total acreage in sweet corn in the Glades this year would reach 17,000 acres—up about 3,500 acres from last year.

Church and CLUB NEWS

Christian Science Group Of Canal Point

The need to see the reality and substantiality of Spirit, God, is the theme of services to be held in all Christian Science churches next Sunday when the subject is: "SUBSTANCE."

A verse from Paul's second epistle to Timothy provides the Golden Text: "The foundation of God standeth sure, having this seal. The Lord knoweth them that are his" (II Tim. 2: 19).

Selections from the Bible include the following from Matthew (6: 20, 21): "Lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through nor steal: For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also."

Passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy include: "To ascertain our progress, we must learn where our affections are placed and whom we acknowledge and obey as God. If divine Love is becoming nearer, dearer, and more real to us, matter is then submitting to Spirit." (p. 239).

Power Company Establishes New Record In Service To Rural Homes

An outstanding record in rural electrification in this district has been set by Florida Power & Light Company, according to Curtis Chase, Manager, who announced yesterday that his company during the past six years has almost doubled the number of rural customers it serves here.

"In our Glades district, comprised of an important part of Palm Beach County, and sections of Hendry and Martin Counties", Chase said, "we now serve 1,439 rural customers. This is a seventy percent increase over the 846 rural customers served at the end of 1945."

During the past six years the power company built 67 miles of rural lines to make electric service available to 2,076 additional persons.

Figuring each of its 1,439 rural customers represents 3 1/4 persons, on the average, this means that Florida Power & Light Company now serves a rural population in the Glades trading area totaling over 5,037 persons.

"We are proud of this achievement," Chase said, "because electric service contributes greatly to the prosperity of our country."

"Besides operating home helps such as refrigerators, ranges, water heaters and vacuum cleaners, electricity lightens farm labor. It pumps water, grinds feed, saws wood, and does dozens of other backbreaking tasks."

"A very important service rendered by electricity is that it enables the rural resident to operate several kinds of businesses formerly restricted to the city. For example, with electricity available, a rural resident may operate a fruit or vegetable processing plant, a pasteurizing plant, and many other businesses which help make him more prosperous and which, in turn, contribute to the prosperity of our area."

Chase pointed out that the state of Florida, with 79.4 percent of its occupied farms electrified from central power stations, is ahead of all the other nine southeastern states. The Florida Power and Light Company serves a major portion of this state.

"We are not resting on our laurels," Chase said, "we intend to continue improvements and extensions of our lines in order to render the very best of electric service to our customers."

Polly Rose Balfe For Committeewoman

Polly Rose Balfe, editor and publisher of The Redland District News, Homestead, Florida, today qualified as a candidate for National Democratic Committeewoman of Florida, by paying her qualifying fee to Sec'y of State R. A. Gray, at the State Capitol, Tallahassee.

hassee. Democratic Committee members, one man and one woman, will be elected in the second primary election, May 27.

Mrs. Balfe served Florida as National Democratic Committeewoman in 1944, having been elected by the State Democratic Executive Committee to fill out the unexpired term of the late Mrs. Enid Broward Hardee. Mrs. Balfe was a member of the Arrangements Committee of the Democratic National Convention of that year, in Chicago.

Relative to the importance of the post to which she aspires, Mrs.

Balfe made the following statement:

"When the first seeds were sown in the Constitutional Convention of 1787, it was then that the first battles were fought between those who wanted a strong, centralized, federal government consistent with national security. In the debates of that convention were founded the Democratic germ plasm, the ultimate growth of which under Thomas Jefferson's genius was the establishment of a party whose theory aimed at direct popular control over the government; which championed the rights of the masses and was really democratic in theory and fact; which was based on the fundamental belief that people are capable of governing themselves; which aimed at the widest possible extension of suffrage and the fullest measure of personal liberty consistent with the law, order and the national welfare; which favored the strictest interpretation of the constitution and the conservation of the rights of the States; which opposed the centralization of power in the Federal Government; which believed in equal rights for all, special privileges for none and stood militantly for religious liberty, free speech and a free press."
